ACT OF AUGUST 6, 1846.

9 Stat. L., 59. CHAP. XC.—An act to provide for the better organization of the Treasury, and for the collection, safe-keeping, transfer, and disbursement of the public revenue.

Preamble. 1789, ch. 12.

Whereas, by the fourth section of the act entitled "An act to establish the Treasury Department," approved September two, seventeen hundred and eighty-nine, it was provided that it should be the duty of the treasurer to receive and keep the moneys of the United States, and to disburse the same upon warrants drawn by the Secretary of the Treasury, countersigned by the comptroller, and recorded by the register, and not otherwise: and whereas it is found necessary to make further provisions to enable the treasurer the better to carry into effect the intent of the said section in relation to the receiving and disbursing the moneys of the United States: Therefore, Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assem-The treasury bled, That the rooms prepared and provided in the new of the United States design treasury building at the seat of government for the use of the treasurer of the United States, his assistants, and clerks, and occupied by them, and also the fire-proof vaults and safes erected in said rooms for the keeping

See Revised Statutes, sections 3592, 3594.)

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the President ant treasurers shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent to be appointed, who shall of the Senate appoint, four officers to be denominated hold their offices for four "assistant treasurers of the United States," which said years. officers shall hold their respective offices for the term of four years, unless sooner removed therefrom; one Location of assistant treasof which shall be located at the city of New York, in urers. the State of New York; one other of which shall be located at the city of Boston, in the State of Massachusetts; one other of which shall be located at the city of Charleston, in the State of South Carolina; and one other at St. Louis, in the State of Missouri. And all Shall give of which said officers shall give bonds to the United States, with sureties, according to the provisions hereinafter contained, for the faithful discharge of the duties of their respective offices.

Note.—The assistant treasurers mentioned in sections 3 and 5 of this act were, with others, provided for by section 3595 of the Revised Statutes. 'The act of August 15, 1876 (19 Stat. L., 155), abolished the position at Charleston, S. C.

Additional assistant treasurers of the United States were provided for by the following acts:

At Denver, April 21, 1862 (12 Stat. L., 382), the duties to be performed by the superintendent of the mint, but the act of July 12, 1870 (16 Stat. L., 241), abolished the office of such superintendent.

ACT OF FEBRUARY 25, 1791.

Chap. X.—An act to incorporate the subscribers to the 1 Stat. I., Bank of the United States.

Whereas, it is conceived that the establishment of a Bank for the United States, upon a foundation sufficiently extensive to answer the purposes intended thereby, and at the same time upon the principles which afford adequate security for an upright and prudent administration thereof, will be very conducive to the successful conducting of the national finances; will tend to give facility to the obtaining of loans, for the use of the Government, in sudden emergencies; and will be productive of considerable advantage to trade and industry in general: Therefore.

Section 1. Be is enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That a Bank of the United States shall Establish be established; the capital stock whereof shall not exceed Bank of the United States. ten millions of dollars, divided into twenty-five thousand and amount and division of shares, each share being four hundred dollars; and that its stock, and time of subsubscriptions, towards constituting the said stock, shall, scribing. on the first Monday of April next, be opened at the city of Philadelphia, under the superintendence of such persons, not less than three, as shall be appointed for that purpose by the President of the United States (who is hereby empowered to appoint the said persons accordingly) which subscriptions shall continue open, until the Act of Mar. whole of the said stock shall have been subscribed.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be law-be subscribed. ful for any person, co-partnership, or body politic, to subscribe for such or so many shares, as he, she, or they shall think fit, not exceeding one thousand, except as shall be hereafter directed relatively to the United States; and Proportions of gold that the sums, respectively subscribed, except on behalf of and street debt the United States, shall be payable one fourth in gold and to be subscribed, and

Act may be al tered or repealed

Sec. 61. And be it further enacted, That Congress may at any time amend, alter, or repeal this act.

Approved. June 3, 1861.

(By the act of March 1, 1872, Leavenworth is struck out from the list of redemption cities in section 31 above. (17 Stat. L., 32.)

(The use of the word "national," as a part of the name of any bank not organized under the national currency act above, is forbidden by the act of March 3, 1873. (17 Stat. L., 603.)

Note.—The above act is in substance a revision of that of February 25, 1863, with only such changes as experience had shown to be necessary for the trial of the system. Some of the principal points of difference between the two acts are the following:

The act of 1863 made no provision for the redemption of the circulation by the banks of the principal cities, such as is contained in sections 31 and 32 of the act of 1864; but simply required that every bank should redeem its circulation at its own counter, and that it should have for that and other purposes a reserve equal to twenty-five per cent of its circulation and deposits, of which reserve three-fifths might be deposited with associations in nine principal cities named in the act.

The prohibition of the issue of circulating notes of a less denomination than five dollars, took effect at once in the act of 1863.

Under the act of 1863, coupon bonds might be deposited to secure the circulation, but by the act of 1864 only registered bonds.

The act of 1863 required a smaller minimum of capital for a new bank than the act of 1864, required a smaller proportion to be paid in before beginning business, and allowed a longer time for the payment of the remainder.

The act of 1864 makes more complete provision than that of 1863 for the conversion of state banks into national associations, permitting the retention of the former name of a bank after conversion, and in section 12 exempting the stockholders of such banks from personal liability under certain conditions, which were intended to meet the case of the Bank of Commerce in the city of New York.

The act of 1863 failed to provide as to the taxation of shares by state authority, and permitted loans on real, as well as personal, security.

The act of 1863 required the apportionment of the total circulation among the States and Territories, one half according to representative population and one half having due regard to the existing banking capital and resources.

For changes in the provision made in section 22, as to the total amount of bank notes and for the apportionment thereof, see below, pages 364, 369-371, 418-421.

For changes in the limit of circulation allowed to any bank in section 21, and the amount of bonds to be held, see below, pages 364, 369–371, 418, 419, 423, 432, 433.

Note to section 55, chapter 106, June 3, 1864 (13 Stat. L. 99): "The act of April 6, 1869 (16 Stat. L., 7), prescribed a penalty for aiding and abetting officers, etc., of national banks in embezzling, etc., funds of bank."

"The act of April 22, 1870 (16 Stat. L., 91) amending the usury laws of the District of Columbia, provided that nothing therein should affect national banking associations."

"The act of July 8, 1870 (16 Stat. L., 195), provided that section 55, above, and all acts amendatory thereof should be construed to apply to every president, director, cashier, teller, clerk, or agent of any banking association organized, etc."
